

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Letter from the Guest Editor	1
ACADEMIC ARTICLES
Vandalism of Māori Art Ngarino Ellis	3
The Exploitation of Culture Through Fake Aboriginal ‘Style’ Art and Craft Products in the Australian Market Stephanie Parkin	13
Art Auction Legal Liability and Risk – A New Zealand Perspective Rod Thomas	21
Cultural Heritage Protection: Australian Case Studies Vicki Oliveri	43
Stolen Art in Paradise: Stories of Illicit Trafficking of Cultural Properties in Oceania Tarisi Vunidilo	57
Art Crime and Public Sculpture in Aotearoa New Zealand Robin Woodward and Ellie Thomas	69
Return of the Past: The Challenges of Oceanian Art’s Restitution in Today’s Art World Pandora Langlais	83
REGULAR COLUMNS
Lessons from the History of Art Crime “Do NFTs Mean the End of Real-World Art?” Noah Charney	95
Context Matters “The Graham Geddes Collection and Loans to Museums” David W. J. Gill	99
EDITORIAL ESSAYS
V is for Vandalism Catherine Gardner	107
Te Hokinga Mai – The Return: Repatriation of Māori and Moriori Ancestral Human Remains from International Institutions Home to New Zealand Louisa Gommans	113

REVIEWS

Penelope Jackson reviews	117
Provenance Research Today: Principles, Practice, Problems

EXTRAS

Revisiting the 1977 Grace Cossington Smith Exhibition Art Heist Pamelia James and Penelope Jackson	119
Acknowledgements	123
Contributor Biographies	131